1. Location:

The installation was located about 100 meters south of the main Quedlinburg-Wedderstadt road and consisted of a signal trailer and a large circular tent measuring about four meters in diameter (see sketch).

2. Equipment:

The set consisted of twin parabolic reflectors, solid in appearance, about 1.40 meters in diameter, attached to a central wave guide, four centimeters in diameter, mounted on the roof of the signal trailer. The reflectors rotated horizontally. At each corner of the trailer, approximately three meters distant, four-meter-high masts were in position, supporting a twin-wire rhombic aerial. Neither insulators nor wire feeders were noted. Attached to or adjoining the signal trailer was a rectangular-shaped metal reflector, about 80 centimeters wide and two meters high, mounted on a short mast. A two-centimeter cable, supported by four-meter high masts, connected the site with Diffurt, located approximately 1.5 kilometers to the north.

3. Except for a sentry patrolling the site, and two soldiers observed leaving the trailer to go to the tent, no activity was noted.
